THE MIDWAY

Will Arrive In Town Tomorrow.

Two Hundred People Employed—Full Description.

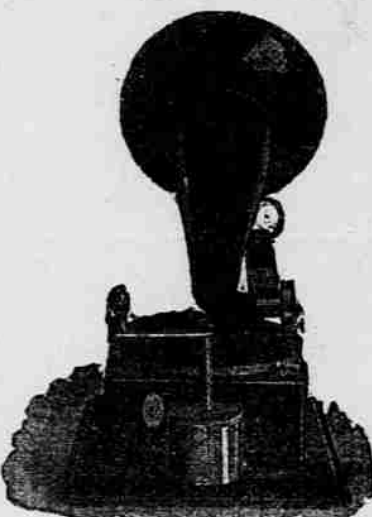

The "Big Midway Show" will arrive in Akron tomorrow morning about 10 o'clock on its own special train via the Erie from Middletown, Ohio, where it has been furnishing the carnival feature for the Elks' street fair. The midway moves with all the system and precision of a circus. Ten cars are required to transport the elephants, camels and other animals, scenery, paraphernalia and the two hundred actors, performers and attaches. By sundown to-morrow evening all will be in place, the tents for the different theatres raised and everything in shape for the grand opening on Monday.

The Streets of India will undoubtedly meet with the greatest favor of all the midway attractions. In Dayton, Columbus, and in fact all the cities in which the midway has appeared, it has been customary for the smart set to indulge in midway parties during the fair. The Streets of India being the place of meeting. From there a tour of the theatres is made lasting until the hour set for Phillips' appearance upon the spiral tower. After that comes a luncheon at a popular cafe or at the home of the entertainers.

It really requires several evenings to fully explain the midway in order to appreciate it in all its varied phases. An entire evening can be spent upon the streets of India, riding the elephants and camels and witnessing the performance of Hassan Ben Ali's wonderful acrobatic Arabs and the mysterious magic of Prince Ishmael, the Hindu magician.

Another evening can be spent in simply watching the crowds on the midway and viewing the free exhibitions given in front of the several theatres and then the act of the matchless Phillips as he descends the spiral tower in a fountain of flame. At least two evenings are required to properly "do" the theatres. There is always something new, strange and interesting to be seen upon the midway.
